FUNK & WAGNALLS

HAVE RECENTLY PUBLISHED:

HINTS ON EARLY EDUCATION.

This work was first published sixty years ago in London, anonymously. Its authorship has been attributed to a sister of Elizabeth Fry, the eminent philanthropist; but although it passed through eighteen editions in England, the name of the author never appeared on the title-page. It is very helpful from the practical good sense, clear insight, intelligent discrimination, and high moral standard of the "Hints." 12mo, cloth, 60 cents.

Rev. JOHN HALL, D.D., says:

"I have read carefully the 'Hints on Early Education.' The gentle wisdom, knowledge of human nature, and loyalty to 'Our Father in Heaven,' which the writer—unknown to me—displays, commend the book as well worth putting within the reach of American parents. I cannot recall a sentiment that requires modification; nor is there anything in the volume that tends to limit the book to any one class or any one denomination. . . . Under the blessing of God, this modest volume may recall attention to a vital matter, deepen the sense of parental duty, and guide heads and hearts already impressed, and raise the question, How can we best mould the character of these our children? I heartily commend the book."

A DAY IN CAPERNAUM.

By Dr. FRANZ DELITZSCH, Professor in the University of Leipzig. Translated from the third German Edition by Rev. George H. Schodde, Ph.D., Professor in Capital University, Columbus, Ohio. 12mo, cloth, 75 cents.

The description of the localities as they now appear is based, although not exclusively, on the works of Robinson; their reproduction in their older form is based on the notices scattered in Josephus, the Talmud, and the Midrashim, for which the author was not restricted to those already collected by Reland, Lightfoot, Schwarz, and Neubauer. The illustrations of the times and of the life of the people are in nowise the work of fiction; they are throughout drawn from the oldest Jewish literature.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S PRAYER-MEETINGS.

By Rev. F. E. CLARK, Pastor of Philip's Church, Boston; founder and originator of "The Society of Christian Endeavor." 12mo, cloth, 75 cents.

Long needed and thoroughly practical. It tells how to conduct these meetings and make them interesting. Full of suggestive hints. Hundreds of themes and texts used in many prayer-meetings.

The Congregationalist, Boston, says: "It is an unusual combination of Christian common-sense with a broad and also minute knowledge of the needs, desires, tastes, and feelings of young people."

Send for descriptive circular.

BEFORE AN AUDIENCE;

Or, The Use of the Will in Public Speaking. By NATHAN SHEPPARD. A splendid book for all public speakers. 12mo, cloth, 75 cents. Send for circular.

The New York Evangelist says: "They are very racy and earnest talks, full of sense and most delightfully dogmatic. The author knocks to flinders the theories of elocutionists, and opposes all their rules with one simple counsel, 'Wake up your will.'"

NEW EDITION IN PRESS.

CAPTAIN OF THE JANIZARIES.

By JAMES M. LUDLOW, M.D. A historic novel of great value. It is both a model of romance and a standard history. Cloth, $1.50.

The Atlanta Constitution says: "The events move in a dazzling procession, with raids, battles, and intrigues, culminating in the capture of Constantinople, which is described with lurid power."

The New York Critic says: "Stirring, vivid, and impressive, and brilliantly written."

18 and 20 Astor Place, New York.

The office of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, and the other periodicals published from this office, have been removed to Franklin Square (330 Pearl St.), near Frankfort St., opposite Harper & Bros. This is accessible by the Second and Third Avenue L railroads (Franklin Square station), as well as by the Second Avenue line of horse cars.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish to-day in the American Commonwealths series Prof. Alexander Johnston's history of Connecticut.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish shortly "Round About to Moscow," an epicurean journey, by John Bell Bouton. This is described as "the record of a tour made, American fashion, with due regard for comfort and luxury," and as "a vindication of Russia from those unfounded and unjust charges of the English press which have so powerfully dissuaded Americans from visiting that country, where they are made so welcome and so good a time awaits them."

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. will shortly publish an anonymous novel, to be entitled "Wallingford." It is said to be the production of an official of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The heroine is a Baltimore belle and the hero a civil engineer, who has constructed a tunnel under Baltimore. It is said that the author desires in this work to test his theory that the popular taste demands romantic, sentimental, and broadly humorous things in fiction rather than photographic realism.

TICKNOR & Co. publish to-day "Final Memorials of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow," by Samuel Longfellow, containing the journals and letters of the last twelve years of the poet's life, together with many letters of earlier periods, a chapter of "Table Talk," and some pieces of unpublished verse. It will be issued in one volume. They have also just ready "The Devil's Hat," a novel of the oil regions of Pennsylvania, by Melville Philips, and "Lights and Shadows of a Life," a Southern tale, by Madeleine Vinton Dahlgren.

LEE & SHEPARD will publish on the 15th "Drones' Honey," a novel by Sophie May, which marks a new departure in the writings of this brilliant author, whose previous efforts were specially designed to suit the young. It is a story of society, well conceived in plot, and skilfully developed, full of power and grace. They will also issue on the same day a new edition of "A Few Thoughts for a Young Man," by Horace Mann. They have in preparation new editions of those valuable works, "Milch Cows and Dairy Farming" and "Grasses and Forage Plants," by C. L. Flint, of the Mass. State Board of Agriculture. Both are being carefully revised and brought down to date.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly in book-form, under the title of "In Ole Virginia," the admirable stories by Mr. Thomas Nelson Page which have been delighting magazine readers for some time. A handsome cover has been designed for the book by the Tiffany Art Company. They will also issue shortly H. C. Bunner's "Story of a New York House," which appeared serially in Scribner's Magazine. Nothing more delightful in tone and artistic in spirit has been produced by an American author in a long time. The vicissitudes of the old house have been graphically described, but the fine quality of the work has been disclosed in the uncommon delicacy of its characterizations. The past has been most skilfully reproduced by a thorough imaginative identification with its ideals and standards, and a fine comprehension of its spirit.

CASELL & COMPANY have in press a work to be entitled "Pen Portraits of Literary Women." It is to be in two volumes of the size of the Actors and Actresses series. It will comprise, with the exception of George Sand and Harriet Beecher Stowe, concise biographical sketches of English literary women from Hannah More to George Eliot, accompanied by illustrative anecdotes and ana. The work has been prepared by Miss Helen Gray Cone, author of the volume of poems, "Oberon and Puck," and Miss J. L. Gilder, of The Critic. Messrs. Cassell will issue shortly "Sidney Lusk's" new novel, entitled "The Yoke of the Thorah." It is the story of a young Hebrew painter's love for a Christian girl. The scene is laid in New York, and the atmosphere is thoroughly local. Mr. Lusk has such a passion for the Jewish race, that it has been said that he belongs to it, but it is stated that he comes from typical American stock, and has not even married among the Hebrews, his wife being of French descent and a devout Roman Catholic.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. 4to: under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

A., L. M. Six weeks in old France; or, Dr. Thom's holiday; letters from Château de Montagland. N. Y., American Bureau of Foreign Travel, [A. de Potter,] 1887. c. 5+317 p. il. S. cl., $1.

In the form of letters, descriptions are given of the beautiful scenery, châteaux, castles, and cathedrals of the province of Touraine in Southern France, familiarly called "the garden of France." Stories and historical episodes and incidents of travel are interspersed. The lady who writes the letters has for travelling companions a party of American ladies and gentlemen, with whom the reader becomes quite well acquainted.

Allinson, E: P., and Penrose, Boies. Philadelphia, 1681-1887: a history of municipal development. Balt., N. Murray, Agt. Johns Hopkins Univ., [Phila., Allen, Lane & Scott,] 1887. c. 51+392 p. O. (Johns Hopkins Univ. studies, extra volume, no. 2.) cl., $3; shp., $3.50.

"The purpose of this work is to record the history of the development of the municipal institutions of Philadelphia; to trace, with considerable detail, the many changes in the powers, duties, and position of the mayor; in the election, appointment, and powers of the other executive officers; in the position and relation of the various departments; in the legislative and executive powers of councils; in the frequently shifting distribution of executive power between the mayor and councils; in the procedure of councils, and in the financial system of the city. Such a history is of peculiar interest to students of municipal questions, because the development of the government of Philadelphia begins with the most characteristic form of a mediæval English borough corporation, and, after passing through almost every system and phase of municipal institutions, ends with a charter embracing the latest ideas of municipal government. The work is based upon the acts of assembly, the city ordinances, the state reports, and many other authorities cited elsewhere."

Beaufort, Raphaël Ledos de. Franz Liszt; the story of his life. Bost., Oliver Ditson & Co., 1887. c. 233 p. il. and por. D. cl., $1.25.

A plain, unvarnished story of the life of the famous pianist. The events of his life from early childhood to the time of his death are given. In addition to the main work there is an essay by T. Carlaw Martin, entitled "Liszt as a litterateur," and a list of his chief compositions, together with the names of his principal pupils.

Beckett, C: H: Who is John Noman? N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1887.] c. 318 p. S. cl., $1.

A little ill-treated boy, found by an aged recluse who lives on some high mountains, is the hero John Noman. He as well as his benefactor is the centre of a mystery, which is only solved in the last chapter. The story changes from America to England, and has some very sensational scenes.

Beecher, H: Ward. Norwood; or, village life in New England. Reprinted from the New York Ledger. [New ed.] N. Y., Fords, Howard & Hulbert, 1887. c. '67. 10+549 p. D. cl., reduced to $1.25.

This new edition of the only novel written by Mr. Beecher contains another interesting letter written to his publishers concerning the novel in 1866.

Brenda, [pseud.] Dinah Mite: a story for today. N. Y., T: Whittaker, 1887. S. cl., 90 c.

"Dinah Mite" was the name given in jest to a little baby whose surname was Mite. Dinah lived in a wretched London court, where she became famous as the blue-ribbon baby because of the wonderful reformation she wrought in her drunken father. Shows up life among the poor of London and illustrates the necessity of their living temperate lives.

Brown, G: W: Baltimore and the nineteenth of April, 1861: a study of the war. Balt., N. Murray, Agt. Johns Hopkins Univ., 1887.

*In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

c. 176 p. O. (Johns Hopkins University studies, extra vol., no. 3.) cl., $1.

Judge Brown, who was Mayor of Baltimore in 1861, discusses frankly the events leading to the 19th of April, when the 6th Mass. Regt. marched through Baltimore and was attacked by a furious mob, and also those immediately following. Judge Brown states that his point of view of the events he describes is that of many leading citizens of Maryland. The volume not only aims to be dispassionate and historically accurate, but to bring about a better understanding of the state of society and of public feeling in the borderland between the North and South in 1861.

Conklin, Mrs. Nathaniel. [Jennie M. Drinkwater.] Isobel's between times. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., [1887.] c. 521 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The story opens in France. Here Isobel Kellinger had lived at a small boarding-school in Havre during almost all the twenty years of her brief life. Isobel is an American girl and the only daughter of a sea-captain. She has never received much love from father or mother, and has grown up a dissatisfied, unhappy girl, yearning for love and a home life. The story illustrates her character, and the changes it undergoes both through trouble and happiness. She returns to America to live with her grandfather, and has many unusual experiences before she finds the happiness she desires. There is a strong element of religious teaching in the story.

A consecutive account of the Orthodox Church of Russia, beginning with its origin and history, investigating its present condition and the condition of its clergy, tracing the causes and consequences of the famous schism which arose in the seventeenth century, and still continues, and finally examining the innumerable sects of the Church. A long residence in Russia, and an intimate familiarity with its language, its history, and its customs, have given Mr. Heard many and unusual opportunities of studying the lower classes and their active religious faith.

Illinois. Supreme Court. Reports of cases; N. L. Freeman, rep. V. 117, [Jan., March, May, June, and Aug., 1886.] Springfield, [N. L. Freeman,] 1887. c. 9+11+772 p. O. shp., $2.25.

It: a wild, weird history of marvellous, miraculous, phantasmagorical adventures in search of he, she and Jess, and leading to the finding of "It:" a haggard conclusion. N. Y., Norman L. Munro, 1887. c. 242 p. D. (Munro's lib., no. 726.) pap., 20 c.

Another story of impossible adventure in unknown parts of the African continent. "It," discovered by the hero after a series of experiences similar to those of "She," is said to be the missing link between man and brute.

Keyt, Alonzo T., M.D. Sphygmography and cardiography, physiological and clinical; ed. by Asa B. Isham, M.D., and M. H. Keyt, M.D.

N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1887. 236 p. O. cl., $3.50.

Kirkland, Jos. Zury; the meanest man in Spring County: a novel of Western life. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1887. c. 4+538 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Frontier life in the early days of Illinois, most minutely detailed, is the subject of this novel. "Zury" comes as a boy to Spring County, and by his energy and industry and his courageous struggles with privations becomes in middle age a wealthy man. A young New England school-teacher, Anne Sparrow, is a strong influence upon "Zury." Her rough experience and her spirited, independent character are graphically described.

Kurtz, C. M., ed. National Academy notes and complete catalogue; 62d spring exhibition, National Academy of Design, N. Y. N. Y., Cassell & Co., 1887. c. 146 p. il. D. cl., 50 c.

With illustrations reproduced from drawings by the artists; personal notices of the artists whose works are reproduced; a sketch of the Academy, its membership, government, schools, etc.—with supplementary chapter on the art attractions of New York.

Lampadius, W. A. The life of Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy; tr. by W. L. Gage. New ed. Bost., Oliver Ditson & Co., 1887. c. 3-333 p. por. D. cl., $1.50.

The German author gives in this new edition a supplemented and more elaborate work than the first. Like the original edition, it still retains the sketches by Julius Benedict, H. F. Chorley, L. Rellstab, Bayard Taylor, R. S. Willis, and John S. Dwight.

Lean, Mrs. Francis, [formerly Florence Marryat.] Captain Norton's diary. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., 1887. 78 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 938.) pap., 10 c.

Lean, Mrs. Francis, [formerly Florence Marryat.] Facing the footlights. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1887.] 258 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 942.) pap., 20 c.

Lean, Mrs. Francis, [formerly Florence Marryat.] The girls of Feversham. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1887.] 229 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 939.) pap., 20 c.

Lean, Mrs. Francis, [formerly Florence Marryat.] Her world against a lie: a romance. N. Y., Norman L. Munro, [1887.] 264 p. D. (Munro's lib., no. 728.) pap., 20 c.

Lean, Mrs. Francis, [formerly Florence Marryat.] My sister the actress. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1887.] 280 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 937.) pap., 20 c.

Lean, Mrs. Francis, [formerly Florence Marryat.] The root of all evil. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1887.] 281 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 940.) pap., 20 c.

Lindsay, T. M., D.D. Gospel according to St. Luke; with introduction, notes, and maps, chapters 1-12. N. Y., Scribner & Welford, 1887. 171 p. D. (Handbooks for Bible-classes.) cl., $1.

Ludlum, J. K. Was he wise? N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1887. 306 p. D. cl., $1.

Frank and Will Forde were brothers and partners in a novelty store. Frank is imbued with a deep religious feeling, and has strong principles about observing the Sabbath. Will to the contrary claims that he has no time for rest, and this becomes a disputed point which leads the brothers to dissolve partnership, and Will pursues a course which gives rise to the question, "Was he wise?" This answers itself and demonstrates fully the author's purpose.

McCarthy, Justin. A history of our own times; from the accession of Queen Victoria to the general election of 1880; with an appendix of events to the end of 1886. Jubilee ed. N. Y., Scribner & Welford, 1886. 2 v., 1019 p. O. cl., $6.

Macy, Ja. C. Young people's history of music; with biographies of famous musicians. Bost., Oliver Ditson & Co., 1886. c. 135 p. il. D. cl., $1.

Briefly states the facts relative to the history of music, from the earliest times to the present era, and gives, in addition, short biographical sketches of Bach, Handel, Haydn, Beethoven, Mozart, Mendelssohn, Schubert, Schumann, and other masters; there is also a chronological list of great composers. The language used is such that all young readers will understand.

Munroe, Kirk. The flamingo feather. N. Y., Harper, 1887. c. 6+255 p. il. S. (Harper's young people ser.) cl., $1.

The story opens in 1564 and tells some of the early history of Florida, although it deals chiefly with the unsuccessful expedition sent out by the French Admiral Ribault, under the command of Laudonniere, and the romantic adventures of his nephew, Rene de Veaux, whose valorous deeds endeared him to the Indians, and won for him "the flamingo feather," which had heretofore been worn by Hasse, the bow-bearer.

Oliphant, Mrs. Marg. O. W. John: a love story. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1887.] 256 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 920.) pap., 20 c.

Payn, Ja. Glow-worm tales. N. Y., Harper, [1887.] 67 p. Q. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., no. 579.) pap., 20 c.

Contains thirty-five short stories—"The guinea box," "An accomplished divine," "An Arcadian revenge," etc., etc.

Philbrick, P. H. Beams and girders; practical formulas for their resistance. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand, 1886. T. (Van Nostrand's sci. ser., no. 88.) bds., 50 c.

Reade, C. Readiana. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1887.] 105 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 919.) pap., 10 c.

Reade, C. A terrible temptation. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1887.] 281 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 914.) pap., 20 c.

Raleigh, Sir Walter. The discovery of Guiana and the journal of the voyage thereto. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1887.] 192 p. T. (Cassell's national lib., no. 66.) pap., 10 c.

Roe, E. P. Hornet's nest. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1887. 157 p. S. pap., 25 c.

Rorer, Mrs. S. T. Canning and preserving. Phil., Arnold & Co., [1887.] c. 3-78 p. D. pap., 25 c.

Mrs. Rorer discusses at length the canning and preserving of fruits and vegetables, with the kindred subjects of marmalades, butters, fruit jellies and syrups, drying and pickling. As in her larger work, the "Philadelphia cook-book," the recipes are clearly and simply given, while an exhaustive index affords easy reference to every subject.

Scott, Eben Greenough. Commentaries upon the interstate system of Pennsylvania, and the powers and jurisdiction of the orphan's court. Phil., Kay & Bros., 1887. c. 961+75 p. O. shp., $6.50.

LEGAL PUBLICATIONS IN 1886.

A CORRECTION.

In noticing in a recent issue of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY the nineteenth annual "Uebersicht der gesammten Staats- und Rechtswissenschaftlichen Literatur," published by Puttkammer and Mühlbrecht, we inadvertently gave the statistics for the ten years from 1876 to 1886 inclusive as those representing the output of works on jurisprudence in the various European countries for 1886. Our readers will therefore bear in mind that the total 44,947 represents the number of works published during the past ten years. The following table gives the figures for 1886:

English (including North America).....	630
French (including Belgium).....	770
Germany (including Germany, Austria, and Switzerland).....	1687
Italian.....	467
Dutch.....	247
Scandinavian (including Denmark, Sweden, and Norway).....	161
Spanish.....	89
Total.....	4051

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 7, 1887.

PUBLISHERS are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The trade are invited to send "Communications" to the editor on any topic of interest to the trade, and as to which an interchange of opinion is desirable. Also, matter for "Notes and Queries" thankfully received.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

ANOTHER PEST FOR PUBLISHERS.

A LITTLE time since, many publishers received from a kind-hearted and enterprising Chicago gentleman a list of "valuable names" which he announced would be charged to the obliged recipient at one dollar in the event of the list not being returned. These were the names of parties who were represented as eager and even anxious to buy goods, and it was explained to innocent publishers that it would be money in their purse to give them opportunity to buy a few hundred books or periodicals.

The other side of the story is shown in the following advertisements, which have been clipped at random from a large number of interesting examples of the same sort:

BOOKS FREE as samples, also hundreds of magazines, papers, works of art, catalogues, circulars, etc., guaranteed to every one sending 25 cents for having name and address published in our Readers' Directory. Issued monthly and used by all the leading publishers, booksellers, manufacturers, and dealers in the United States, Canada, and Great Britain. You will get over $25 worth of choice reading free, besides numerous price lists from those who sell goods by mail. Keep posted on all the new things in literature, and the bargains offered by responsible firms, by having your name inserted at once. Copy containing name free. Mention this paper. Address Popular Critic, 1031 Springer Av., Chicago, Ill.

WE GUARANTEE YOU to receive 500 samples, books, circulars, letters, and papers free from firms all over the U. S. and Canada, if you send 20 cents to have your name in new issue of Agents' Name Directory, Allen & Co., Box 355, Kennedy, N. Y.

WANTED! Everybody to send 10 cents for the Agents' World four months on trial, and have their names inserted in the Agents' Directory, from which they will receive hundreds of samples, circulars, etc., and piles of good reading-matter free. Agents' World Publishing Co., Passumpsic, Vt.

The price of waste-paper is at present so low that this performance would scarcely seem to hold out prospects of great wealth. Nevertheless there are a good many people, apparently a good many thousand people, up and down the country, who are willing to assist in swindling publishers in this small way. The publisher's lot is not altogether a happy one.

THE termination of the great rag case has been reported in the daily papers, and we give a brief statement of the result elsewhere. The case will undoubtedly be carried to the higher courts, but the present verdict affords good ground for other suits of the same sort, and it is to be hoped, in the interests of commerce and of public morality, that all those who have suffered from the rag ring should take measures to recover as much as possible of their losses and to complete the punishment of the persons concerned in that outrage. Such evils in political administration can only be cured by alert and vigorous action on the part of those who are sufferers. In serving their own cause they serve the cause of the commercial community, and in a trade so intelligent and of such public spirit as the paper-trade no stone should be left unturned to point the moral of the present tale in a very practical way.

WE were in error in a recent editorial in stating or implying that Mr. Longfellow was practically his own publisher, and his publishers really selling agents, throughout his literary life. In his earlier years, he made his own plates, as stated, and paid for his own printing, but in the later years, with Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. and their predecessors, the plates were made and owned by the publishers after the usual manner.

COMMUNICATIONS.

CUSHING'S ANONYMS—A CORRECTION.

CAMBRIDGE, May 3, 1887.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: I see it announced in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of last week that I had given up the publication of "Anonyms." This is not by any means the case. To be sure I have not met with the encouragement I expected, but I am making additions every day. I have now nearly if not quite 21,000 titles, and I cannot believe that in the case of a work of such vast importance to libraries the librarians will be so blind to their interests as to let it go unpublished. I shall be glad to receive information from any of your readers in regard to the authorship of any anonymous book or pamphlet.

Very truly yours,

WILLIAM CUSHING.

LITERARY PROPERTY AND INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT.

BY GEORGE HAVEN PUTNAM.

AN ADDRESS DELIVERED APRIL 2, 1887, BEFORE
THE LIBRARY SCHOOL OF COLUMBIA COLLEGE.

III.

It is hardly possible to say anything in behalf of international copyright to an audience like this that will not sound like and that will not, in fact, be an oft-repeated truism. The assumptions of the advocates of such copyright are, first, that no objections can be raised to the claims of literary producers that would not be equally valid against any other class of producers; and second, that no argument can be made against international copyright that does not apply with equal force against domestic copyright. International copyright is demanded, first, because it is right, and secondly, because it is expedient.

The most widely-spread objection to this measure of justice is that it would make books dearer. But, as Lowell says, "there is one thing better than a cheap book, and that is a book honestly come by." And as Hood put it, with equal force, "Cheap bread is as desirable and as necessary as cheap books; but it hath not yet been thought just or expedient to ordain that after a certain number of crops all cornfields shall become public property. . . . To be robbed by Time is a sorry encouragement to do work for futurity." (Hood was, we must remember, not familiar with the land theories of one of our recent candidates for Mayor.) I have no question, however, that even the author of "Progress and Poverty" would be glad to secure such increased receipts as an international copyright would bring for the results of his own literary labor, if only for the purpose of increasing the resources for the crusade against the Western settler, who, if the new land theories should prevail, is to be deprived of the results which his labor has created out of the wilderness.

International copyright is demanded:

1. For the sake of justice to foreign authors.
2. For the sake of justice to American authors.
3. For the sake of the wholesome development of American literature.
4. For the sake of securing an effective and satisfactory reproduction of foreign literature.
5. To remove from our country the disgrace of being outside of the pale of civilized ethics.

For the case of foreign authors there is nothing to be said that has not been said a hundred times before, and that will not occur at once to my present hearers. If Macaulay was entitled to compensation from the English and French readers who derived satisfaction from his History, it is hard to show why he should not likewise receive compensation from his much more numerous American readers.

It is true that Macaulay and other English writers whose books have been reprinted here have received payments, and in many instances very considerable payments, from their authorized American publishers. As you doubtless all know, it is to-day the practice, and it has for many years been the practice, of all reputable American publishers to make payments to English writers whose works they reprint. But the money so sent is given as a matter of courtesy, and the literary producer ought to be put in a position to secure it as a matter of right. The foreign author can possess in this country no property rights, and has, therefore, in a legal sense, nothing to sell; while it is also the case that the authorized publisher who makes such payment is put at a disadvantage in competing with the unauthorized reprinter who pays nothing; and as the publisher who pays can secure for his outlay no title and no control, the author's remuneration is usually smaller than it ought to be, or than fairly represents the extent of the service rendered by him to his American readers. The injury to American authors from the present iniquitous state of things is two-fold:

1. In refusing protection to foreign writers, we are estopped from demanding a recognition abroad for the right of American literary workers, the use of whose productions is steadily increasing in Great Britain as on the Continent, and

2. The sale of American works at home is seriously hampered and interfered with by the unequal competition of cheap issues of English works, which have paid little or nothing for authors' rights. Goods which have to be paid for do not have a fair chance against goods which can be simply appropriated.

The result is that for a certain class of books by American writers, more particularly works of fiction and light literature, the sales even for authors who have secured a hearing and reputation, are much smaller than they otherwise would be, while the younger writers whose reputation is still to be made find great difficulty in securing the first favorable consideration from the publishers which is requisite in order to get their books before the public. It is only the first step that costs, but a new writer finds it no easy task to induce the American publisher under the present discouraging competition to assume for his book the cost of this first step, and I am convinced that this state of things, while possibly presenting some corresponding advantage in discouraging the printing of inadequate and uncalled-for productions, does act as a positive obstacle in the way of the development of American literature.

Readers have at their command only a certain number of hours in the year, and if a large portion of these hours are devoted to the fifteen-cent reprints of English literature, the demand for equally meritorious American works is often insufficient to render the production of these a remunerative undertaking. I am not a protectionist, and have no idea of suggesting that a bonus be paid to those who will read an American instead of an English book, but I do protest against so heavy a handicap against the American writer, especially when such handicap is based upon the robbery of his foreign competitor.

The sole consideration adduced by the defenders of the present state of things is the supposed interest of the American reader. It is seriously claimed that the intellectual and moral development of our community would be arrested if it should abandon its present mediæval practice of appropriating for itself ad libitum the literature of the outer world. We can imagine the Barbary pirates of the first years of our century taking similar ground, and maintaining that it would be impossible for their North African communities to secure a fair share of European civilization and Christianity if they should give up the time-honored practice of appropriating Christian property and Christian slaves. American readers ought to take the ground that our imported literature must be honestly come by, even if its present cost be doubled or trebled. To those offering appropriated books they should reply, "Timeo Danaos et spolia ferentes." We have no use for gifts which are the fruits of pillage. We decline to act as the receivers of stolen goods. We do not believe in the value of a national civilization which depends for its education on the robbery of brain products.

As an American publisher, however, I will hazard the opinion that buyers of books can be honest at a very trifling cost, and can secure, for a small increase in their present outlay, some important advantages for themselves, in addition to the satisfaction of fulfilling their obligations to the foreign writers whose services they accept. No recognition by royalties of authors' rights need bring back or could bring back the time of dear books. Publishers and authors have already fully realized that their interest lies in bringing their goods within the reach of the masses. It is the impecunious people who in this country do the largest part of the book-buying, and their requirements would continue to be met as at present. Well-printed editions of the best books of leading American authors are now being sold by the publishers representing the copyrights, at one dollar, fifty cents, or twenty-five cents a volume, while the wants of buyers preferring more substantial library editions are not neglected. Monopoly is an ugly word, but its application to the right of a man to be defended in the control of that which he has created, whether it be an "Uncle Tom's Cabin," or a farm hewn out of a forest wilderness, is not reasonable, and the owner of the "Uncle Tom" can be depended upon even more certainly than the man who has cleared for himself a farm, to do with his property what is best for the interests of the community as well as for his own.

Under an international copyright the production of American editions of foreign literature in forms suited to the requirements of the largest number of American readers would, so far from being checked, receive a healthy and active development. Under the present state of things, it often happens that an important undertaking in reprinting from English, or in translating from Continental originals cannot safely be undertaken at all. The American publisher knows that if his reprint receives favorable attention, the fruits of his literary judgment and of his investment in advertising, etc., will be in large part appropriated by unauthorized competitors. As a result, he often has to abandon as unwise undertakings which if properly carried out would prove of material service to American readers. There are many classes of literary enterprise which can safely be undertaken only if complete control and an undivided circle of readers can be assured. For the want of this control, no publisher is justified in taking the risk, and the American reader is deprived of the advantage of cheap American editions and must continue to pay money for the dearer and less suitable European issues. Here is an important class of cases where the want of a copyright actually increases the cost to the American reader. Another disadvantage that comes to the American reader from the present state of things is the imperfect and unsatisfactory form in which many of the reprinted volumes are now presented to him.

In the general scramble for an important English work, the American publisher who has made some payment for the advance sheets and has thereby secured a priority of perhaps a fortnight, is often obliged to rush his book through the press without proper supervision, or adequate proof-reading, and to issue with his imprint a slovenly volume of which he is himself ashamed, with which the intelligent reader is dissatisfied, and the misprints in which are promptly emphasized by the kindly critic of the N. Y. Nation as a disgrace to American publishing.

Under a copyright arrangement, a book could be prepared with sufficient time to insure decent workmanship, and the cost of its production being divided between the English and American publishers, there would be a material saving of cost, a saving of which the author and the reader would reap a full share of the advantage.

I have endeavored to present, I fear at too great length for the interest of my hearers, the disgracefulness of the present position of our nation in this matter, and to point out that there is not even any material advantage to offset the disgrace.

What is to be done to remedy the present state of things? What is it that men and women who read books and who owe something to authors, can themselves do?

It seems to me that librarians, who have now raised their calling to the dignity of a profession, subject to professional standards and to professional obligations, are under a special responsibility in this matter. Their positions give them a wide educational influence. Upon them rests the decision concerning the editions to be recommended or selected for purchase. Readers come to them for counsel, and committees and trustees are guided by their opinions. It is possible, of course, for them to take a narrow view of the nature of their responsibility to literature, and to assume that they have no other concern than to secure for their institution and for their readers at the smallest cost the largest amount of material, that is, the greatest number of cubic feet of books. Even from this purely commercial point of view, the trained librarian will of course bear in mind the difference between one edition and another, and will recognize that he secures fuller value for his dollar in purchasing say one volume of an authorized revised edition, correctly and decently printed, than from the purchase of two volumes representing such unrevised, incomplete, and incorrect material as can usually be obtained in the "piracy issues."

I submit, however, that a higher and wider responsibility rests upon the librarian than that of getting so many cubic inches for a dollar. He is administering a trust, a trust established for the higher education of the community, and it is incumbent upon him to keep always before him the influence exercised upon the literary and ethical standards of the community by the policy and the actions of his particular institution. I should as soon expect to hear of the venerable President of this great university sanctioning the use in its new buildings of blocks of stone stolen from our Canadian neighbors, as to see its energetic and capable librarian building up this library, which is already an honor to our city, with volumes which have been appropriated from English authors.

The libraries ought to pursue such policy as is calculated to give the largest possible return to the generation for the cause of higher education and for the development of literature, and with such end in view every library in the land should become the centre of missionary work in behalf of international copyright.

We want to secure from Congress at the earliest date possible, the largest and most intelligent measure of international copyright and international justice, which the present state of opinion and of literary enlightenment in Congress render practicable; any of you who have had anything to do with Washington will recognize that such a limitation means that if anything is to be done at all we must at the outset accept as a beginning a measure less comprehensive and more hampered with illogical restrictions than many of us consider wise or just, or than we propose to accept as a finality. On this ground, therefore, I find it necessary to dissent from my friends in the Authors' Copyright Association, who have more than once expressed their opposition to the passing of any measure that was not in their opinion complete and logical. Opposition from such a source has given to the opponents of copyright the opportunity of saying that there was no harmony of opinion among its advocates, and has more than once unquestionably hindered legislative action.

For myself, I take the simple ground that if I can't get a whole loaf, I will for the time accept a half, and if not a half then a quarter, and I claim that there is no other practical way of making progress. I am a free-trader, and look forward to the abolition of war taxes, which I believe to be unconstitutional in time of peace and unjust in the face of surplus revenues. But if we cannot at once make an end of the long list of war taxes I shall be glad at least to see a beginning made by the freeing of lumber, wool, and iron.

The efforts in behalf of international copyright, have, from the outset been very much hampered by the question being confused with that of a protective tariff, and the strongest opposition to a copyright measure has, as a rule, come from the protectionists. As early as 1868 Richard Grant White said: "The refusal of copyright in the United States to British authors is in fact, though it is not so avowed, a part of the American protective system." "With free-trade we shall have a just international copyright." It would be difficult, however, for the protectionists to show logical grounds for their position.

[To be concluded.]

REFERENCE DIRECTORIES.

MESSRS. A. C. FARLEY & Co., Limited, of Philadelphia, have issued a new edition, 1887-8, of Farley's Reference Directory of the Booksellers, Stationers, and Printers in the United States and Canada, a valuable work, well known in its previous issues as a convenient reference-book of the trades concerned. It comprises a main list, alphabetical by States and towns, of booksellers, stationers, printers, publishers, etc., in the United States, covering 308 pages in double column, and including about 35,000 entries. In the larger cities, there are two main lists, one of "booksellers, stationers, etc.," the other of "printers, publishers, etc.," with reference from one to the other, the line of division being not quite clear to the uninitiated, besides others of specialties, names being somewhat duplicated in these lists. The buyer of a house is named or indicated by an asterisk—a useful feature. The line of business is given by clear abbreviations, and ratings of capital and credit are given by means of figures; so far as we have been able test the ratings, they are of little or of negative value, but the difficulties of accuracy in this direction are almost insurmountable. To this list is appended one for Canada. Then follow separate alphabets of bookbinders, paper-box manufacturers, and purchasing agents of railroads. We are glad to note that this useful work is supported by a good supply of advertisements, which are well placed in a book of such constant reference. Messrs. Farley enterprisingly issue with the book a supplement of changes and corrections which had come to their notice during the printing of the book, and hold out every assurance of keeping their subscribers thoroughly posted, even to the extent of furnishing special reports at a merely nominal price. The cost of the book is $15.

"GEYER'S REFERENCE DIRECTORY" for 1887 has just been issued. It contains the names of nearly thirty thousand dealers in books, stationery, artists' materials, games, toys, jewelry, music, notions, picture-frames, sporting goods, also, manufacturing stationers, envelope and paper box manufacturers, paper-mills, book publishers, subscription-book agents, bookbinders, lithographers, etc. It also attempts to give approximate ratings of the financial standing of the names represented, but this feature is probably its weakest point. The information given in this volume, it is stated, is not a compilation from other directories, but has been obtained and verified by actual correspondence. A large number of new names have been added, and the directory is claimed to contain none but live men who were actively engaged in business at the time the book went to press. In addition to the list of manufacturers and dealers in kindred branches, the directory contains a full list of the paper-mills in the country, together with information as to the kind and quantity of paper made each day. A classified index to the same is in the front of the book. The price is $5.

A NEW CHICAGO PUBLISHING FIRM.

MR. JOHN C. BUCKBEE, who has been an active partner in the firm of S. C. Griggs & Co. for nearly fifteen years, has recently withdrawn therefrom, taking with him twenty or more of their publications. Their list comprises Bacon's "Manual of Gesture," Brown's "Wit and Humor," Buckingham's "Differential and Integral Calculus," Carew's "Tangled," Cone's "Two Years in California," Fawcett's "Hand-book of Finance," Hall's "Lyrics of Home Land," Ingersoll's "The Crest of the Continent," Kennedy's "Wonders and Curiosities of the Railway," Lorimer's "Isms Old and New," "Jesus, the World's Saviour," and "Studies in Social Life," Maertz's "New Method for the Study of English Literature," Mahan's "System of Mental Philosophy," "Mishaps of Mr. Ezekiel Pelter," Raymond's "Orator's Manual," Robertson's "Living Thoughts," Roger's "The Waverly Dictionary," Sawyer's "Practical German Grammar," Valentine's "National Theology," Welsh's "Essentials of English" and "Complete Rhetoric," Wheeler's "The Foreigner in China," and Zur Brücke's "German without Grammar."

As will be seen the new firm (which will do business under the firm-name of J. C. Buckbee & Co.) expects to give special attention to the publication of text-books for school and college use, but will also publish books in general literature. With many years of practical experience in the Western book-trade, an excellent list to start with, and ample capital, the new firm sets out most auspiciously. They have opened handsome quarters at 122 and 124 Wabash Avenue, and will be pleased to meet their friends, old and new. We extend to them on behalf of the trade a hearty welcome.

DECISION IN THE RAG CASE.

AT noon on April 29 the end in the rag case of Lockwood & McClintock vs. Bartlett & Co. and Health Officer Smith for alleged fraud in regard to rag disinfection was reached, the jury finding judgment for $8000 against Bartlett & Co. The plaintiffs, it will be remembered, claimed $15,000 damages for the detention for compulsory "disinfection" of their rags, imported from Italy and Japan during the cholera scare of 1885, by the defendants, who, it was alleged, conspired to extort money from the plaintiffs. In regard to Dr. Smith, the Health Officer, the jury were unable to agree, standing, it is said, 10 to 1 against him. At one time the jury stood 10 to 1 in favor of bringing in a verdict for $11,300 against Bartlett & Co. It is understood that Bartlett & Co. will take an appeal.

THE SPRING TRADE SALE.

SALE OF PLATES.

AT the spring trade sale the following plates were offered and sold: Aldine Book Pub. Co. offered "An English Daisy Miller," which was bought by Hayes & Cleveland, of New Haven, Conn.; A. Y. Loyd & Co. offered "Lillian Dallzell" and "After Dark in Boston," which were bought by Hurst & Co.; also, "The Dead Guest," "Elizabeth, or the Exiles," "Castles of Athlin," "Hemstead Priory," "A Man of Feeling," "Amorassan," "Mary de Clifford," and "Azmo-loch," which were all bought by Hayes & Cleveland, of New Haven, Conn.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALBANY, N. Y.—Edwin Ellis, bookseller and stationer, announces that he will continue his business at 19 North Pearl St., where he started in 1874 as Edwin Ellis & Co. B. & J. B. Sanders succeeded this concern when Mr. Ellis went into the fancy stationery business. Now B. & J. B. Sanders have gone out of the line of books to carry on a wholesale stationery business, and Mr. Ellis returns to his old stand to carry on a book and stationery business alone.

NEW YORK CITY. J. Parker White and Frank Allen, both of the late firm of White, Stokes & Allen, have formed a partnership for the purpose of transacting a general publishing and book-selling business in an exclusively wholesale way. They expect to be able to show the trade in time for the fall season a number of dainty novelties, together with some handsome illustrated books and a remarkable collection of miscellaneous books. They have taken temporary offices at 94 Wall Street, but hope to be in permanent quarters by July 1.

J. RHOADES MAYO, the well-known poet and journalist, who died April 30, at the age of seventy, was at one time a bookseller in Brooklyn, and for a number of years in the employ of A. S. Barnes & Co.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

"THE Book Trade Base-Ball Club" is the latest development in the Boston trade, and has been very liberally subsidized by the large houses.

R. K. SMITH, buyer for A. C. McClurg & Co., arrived in this city on the 2d. He will call on the trade here, in Boston, and Philadelphia before returning.

A CABLE despatch, dated Berne, April 27, brings the mysterious news that "the Swiss State Council has ratified the literary copyright convention with the United States."

SAMPSON LOW & Co. will publish at once a little work entitled "Copyright, National and International, with some remarks on the position of authors and publishers by a publisher."

MACMILLAN & Co. announce for early issue a volume of "Imaginary Portraits," by Mr. Walter Pater; and a volume of essays and addresses by the Rev. J. M. Wilson, head master of Clifton College.

THE FINANCIER COMPANY, N. Y., has issued a "History of the Stock Exchange and Clearing-House Systems," containing statistics, lists of members, rules and regulations, and other information.

FREDERIC DIELMAN has just finished a beautiful drawing of Gwendolin for the new édition de luxe of George Eliot's works published by Estes & Lauriat. The volume of "Daniel Deronda" in which it appears, will be ready early next month.

THE early closing idea has developed promptly in the Boston book-trade, all the leading publishing-houses, with one or two exceptions, agreeing to close their places of business at 5 P.M. daily and on Saturdays at 2 P.M. through, May, June, July, and August.

SIR AUSTEN HENRY LAYARD is now preparing for the press his early adventures in Persia, Susiana, and Babylonia, which will include an account of his residence among the Bakhtiyari and other wild tribes before the discovery of Nineveh. It will be published by Mr. John Murray.

WM. PAUL GERHARD, 39 Union Square, West, N. Y., will publish shortly a second edition of his pamphlet on "The Prevention of Fire." This will be printed on heavier paper and will have a firmer cover than the first edition, which was exhausted in five months.

MR. RUSKIN writes that he intends to carry his autobiography no further than 1875, and he has concluded to abandon the work entitled "Our Fathers Have Told Us." "The more," he adds, "that I perceive the new generation round us cares nothing about what its fathers either did or said."

AN early volume in the Canterbury Poets series will comprise the plays of Beaumont and Fletcher, selected and edited, with an introductory essay, by Mr. J. S. Fletcher. "The Poetical Works of Heine," translated and arranged by Mrs. Frielgrath Krockner, will be issued in the same series.

THE BALTIMORE PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish on May 15 a popular Life of Catharine McAuley, foundress of the order of Sisters of Mercy, edited by the Sisters of Mercy, St. Louis, Mo., with a preface by Rev. T. A. Butler, Rector of St. Cronan's, St. Louis. This work has been carefully written and revised to meet a long felt want for a correct life of the foundress of the largest order of religious sisters. It will be illustrated with two full-page engravings of Catharine McAuley from a painting in Dublin and of two Sisters of Mercy in street costume ready for the visitation of the sick.

SWAN SONNENSCHN & CO. have just published the long-promised "Life of Rosina, Lady Lytton," by Miss Devey, which has been prepared with the express object of clearing up certain popular misconceptions of that lady's character, and of giving an insight into the true cause of her life-long quarrels with her husband.

ELLIOT STOCK, London, has just ready another volume in the Book-Lover's Library on "The Dedication of Books to Patron and Friend," by Henry B. Wheatley. Not content with merely gathering his specimens, Mr. Wheatley has sorted, arranged and classified them with that instinctive love of method which distinguishes the true bibliographer. Commencing with the period of the patron, when the author was naturally desirous of linking his name with that of the friend whose kindly interest was extended to his work, we proceed, through various fashions, to the time when the custom had fallen into an abyss of degradation, and eulogy could be bought at so many pence or shillings per line. But the market was overstocked, and dedications became a drug. Pope's satire helped to purge Grub Street of this iniquity. At length we come to modern dedications with a variety of examples of the practice followed by famous authors of the present century. The book has an excellent index.

S. E. CASSINO, 137 High St., Boston, will shortly issue, under the title of "The Picturesque Coast of New England," a handsome volume containing twelve photogravures from drawings by Louis K. Harlow, each plate being sixteen by twenty inches in dimensions. These pictures represent picturesque "bits" of the shore at "Mount Desert," "Castine, Me.," "Rockland, Me.," "Portsmouth, N. H.," "The Isles of Shoals," "Newburyport, Mass.," "Nahant, Mass.," "Nantucket" and "Newport, R. I.," "Coasters," and a "Glimpse of Long Island Sound from the Connecticut Shore." Mr. Harlow's talent and exceptional facility in execution are uncommonly displayed in these sketches, which also reveal a romantic vein of sentiment. The book will have a unique cover of dark brown mottled boards, upon which, in relief, will stand out a white sail of real canvas bearing in Pompeian red letters the title. Above this, at the left, a golden net will be draped across the corner of the cover, while white sea-gulls will be seen here and there flying across the brown field. There will be an edition of twenty-five copies on satin and fifty copies on Japan paper, which Mr. Harlow will sign, while the balance of the edition will consist of one thousand copies on heavy plate paper.

JOURNALISTIC.

THE subject for the next prize essay in Walford's Antiquarian will be "The Origin and History of Change-Ringing."

"WASHINGTON IRVING AT HOME," a chapter of reminiscences by Clarence Cook, with a frontispiece portrait engraved by Johnson, appears in the May Century.

A LITERARY journal to be called Das Literarische Deutschland solicits subscriptions from German literary men, promising in return to write and publish a life of each subscriber.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

All matter must be prepaid, except from those with whom we have regular monthly accounts. These departments being purely in the nature of an accommodation to our patrons, we cannot open book accounts of such items.

Copy for these Departments must reach us Wednesday evening to be in time for insertion in same week's issue.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price.

It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then, titles in separate lines (see below), all written on detached slips, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

Annual Catalogue, 1886.

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE, 1886, is now ready. It comprises (1) Directory of American publishers issuing books in 1886, numbering 517, with street addresses ; (2) full titles and descriptive notes of all books recorded in 1886, re-arranged in one author-alphabet (of 196 pages) and reproduced by photo-process ; (3) short-title index by author, title, and subject, giving date of record (of 71 pages) ; (4), supplementary index ; (5) annual lists of publishers.

The book makes an octavo of 348 pages, ranging with PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY or English Catalogue. The price is now $3.00 in sheets (for interleaving), $3.50, half leather, style of American Catalogue ; less than 100 copies remain untaken, and the work cannot be reproduced. The publisher reserves the right to increase the price to $5.

Subscribers to the TRADE LIST ANNUAL will please note that it is not proposed to continue in it the reprint of the Weekly Record, which is replaced in better form by the Annual Catalogue. They should therefore make sure of the latter.

We can also now furnish the ENGLISH CATALOGUE, 1886, paper, $1.50, or the American and English Catalogues, 1886, in one volume, half leather, $5. The supply of these is limited.

Roundabout to Moscow.

An Epicurean Journey. By JOHN BELL BOUTON. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

"'Roundabout to Moscow : An Epicurean Journey,' promises to do something toward allaying the present keen appetite for unprejudiced information about Russia. The author, Mr. John Bell Bouton, has seen that country, her institutions and her people with American eyes, free from the old national prejudices which so deeply tinge the minds of English writers. While the book is in that particular a complete antidote for British bane it is a jovial record of travel and admiration. Mr. Bouton's sole purpose is to entertain and amuse his readers. Americans going abroad this year will find his 'primrose path' to and from Moscow an agreeable one."

Dick's Wandering.

AMERICAN TRADE-MARK CASES.

Several volumes of Trade-mark cases and Trade-mark digests have been published from time to time. The last edition of cases is that of Mr. ROWLAND COX, published in 1880, and which contains an abstract of all Trade-mark cases reported down to December, 1879. The last digest is that of CODDINGTON, published in 1878.

The present volume is designed to embrace the field of both of the books above mentioned from the date of their publication to the present time. It will contain a complete report of all the reported cases decided by Courts in the United States, both State and Federal, as well as by the Commissioner of Patents, and the briefs of counsel where such have been obtained.

It will also contain a subject digest of law points decided by the cases published. This volume will be of special value to the legal profession in all parts of the country, because the remedies for infringement of trade-marks now at the command of trade-mark owners lie entirely in the Equity Courts, both State and Federal, and arise under the common law, except in a few of the States where trade-mark statutes exist. While the Federal statute was in existence the practice in trade-mark cases was confined to the Federal Courts, and in great measure to attorneys making a specialty of practice in those courts; but at present, with such a volume at hand, any State practitioner may with confidence undertake a trade-mark case. A system of reference from digest to syllabus, and from syllabus to section of opinion, has been adopted in printing these cases, which the editors feel will be of material assistance in using the volume.

The cases collected are gathered from almost every State of the Union, and from about one hundred and fifty volumes.

Compiled and edited by BENJAMIN PRICE and ARTHUR STEWART, of the Baltimore Bar.

Will make a volume of upwards of 700 pages; will be published in the best Law-Book style. Price, $7.50.

THE BLIND BROTHER. By Homer Greene. 12mo, cloth, 230 pp., 14 illustrations, 90 cents.

"The recent prize competition for stories, held by the publishers of the Youth's Companion, called forth about 5000 aspirants for literary honors, among that multitude Mr. Homer Greene, of Honesdale, Pa., whose story, 'The Blind Brother,' took the first prize of $1500, probably the largest sum ever paid for a story to a hitherto comparatively unknown writer. 'The Blind Brother' deals with life in the coal-mining region of the Wyoming Valley, and is remarkable for its dramatic intensity, power of characterization, humor, and pathos."
